

ABSTRACT

In response to a requester's execution of a first operation on a storage area containing a first indicator allowing at least one requester to access the component, the storage area changes the first indicator to a second indicator reducing by one a number of requesters that can access the component. Upon completion of access, the requester executes a second operation to replace the second indicator with a third indicator allowing access to an additional requester.

042390.P11425